Overview

The Comprehensive Agreement on Investment (CAI) is a proposed investment deal between the People's Republic of China and the European Union. On 30 December 2020, the EU and China reached an agreement in principle on a comprehensive agreement on investment (CAI). The text agreed upon was set to first undergo legal scrubbing and after that to be translated into all official EU languages prior to being submitted formally to the Council of. The time periods laid down in these Rules of Procedure shall be adjusted in line with the special time periods provided for the issuance of a report or decision by the panel in the proceedings under Article 14 (Reasonable Period of Time), Article 15 (Compliance Review), Article 16 (Temporary. The agreement contains commitments on market access and disciplines that will help to level the playing field for EU investors in China, including clear rules on state-owned enterprises, transparency obligations for subsidies, and rules prohibiting. This economic reconfiguration has created complex, often tense, relations between China and established powers such as the EU and the United States (US), to which multilateral arrangements have offered only partial responses.
