

Winning the bid for solar container system design

Overview

A strong solar RFP response and well-structured solar project proposal can significantly improve your chances when competing on complex solar bids. These RFPs for solar projects are central to modern solar procurement, especially for commercial systems, municipal portfolios, and solar PPA RFPs where ownership, risk, and returns must be clearly defined upfront. Read on to learn more about how the design-bid-build process works and how it compares to design-build. Design-bid-build (DBB) is the traditional go-to delivery method that's been used by the construction industry for hundreds, if not thousands of years. Roof space, panel size and layout considerations may result in an optimized system design larger than 5. 8% CAGR through 2030, driven by renewable integration and grid modernization needs.
